

How do you
clean up after Donkey Kong?

Put the Mario Bros.<sup>TM</sup> a Nintendo-Pak.<sup>TM</sup>

In the world of games, the biggest giants can turn into dinosaurs

practically overnight.
Leaving

you with a large console
and a bigger investment.

Even Donkey Kong, yesterday's top money-maker, has just about run its course. But before you retire it to the back room and replace it with another major investment, read on. Help is on the way.

Save up to 2/3 on the cost of a new game.

The Nintendo-Pak consists of side graphics, header, front-plex, complete control panel and all the electronics you need to change Donkey Kong, Donkey Kong Jr.<sup>TM</sup> and Popeye<sup>TM</sup> into the Mario Bros. Your authorized Nintendo

to work for less with

distributor will take care of the entire transformation for you.

You'll end up with a game practically indistinguishable from a game fresh from a factory. Only they could cost as much as three times more than the Nintendo-Pak.

All this and shellcreepers, too.

As for the game, it's already proven itself in virtually every market in which it has appeared. Mario and Luigi, the janitors who are sweeping the country, do battle with such charming vermin as shellcreepers, fighterflies and sidesteppers, all the while dodging flaming fireballs. So if you want your Donkey Kong to continue as a money-maker, turn the page.

Turn Donkey Kong Jr. and Popeye back into money machines, too.

When is a conversion kit not a conversion kit?

When it's a Nintendo-Pak that comes with absolutely everything. You get new side graphics. A new header for the top. A front-plex. Even a complete control panel.

So you end up with a game that looks every bit as good as one of our brand-new games.

In fact, it does such a good job, the Nintendo-Pak will soon make conversion kits obsolete.

So if you're looking for ways to clean up after Donkey Kong, Donkey Kong Jr. and Popeye, look into the Nintendo-Pak and the amazing new Mario Bros.
